Chapter 30

District 14 – Europe (1994-2019) ¹

Since 1920, Zonta International has grouped clubs by district. The following is information on the formation of District 14 from 1994 to 2019. As if August 2018, District 14 has 46 clubs in Austria, Croatia, Cyprus, Germany, Greece, Hungary, Italy and Lebanon.

District 14 was newly formed in 1994 together with Districts 27, 28, 29 and 30 after the division of the former District XIV. The short narrative is basically built on digitized minutes of the inter-district conferences of 1995 in San Remo (Italy), 1997 in Vienna (Austria) and 1999 in Montpellier (France) and particularly the district conferences from Chania in Greece in 2001 to Bad Gleichenberg in Austria in 2013. This is because district conferences are perfect places for Zonta International authorities to meet members from local clubs and to learn about the problems and progress with implementing Zonta International’s global goals at a local level. District Conference records tell us the unique story of the commitment to and promotion of Zonta International goals in this region of the world.

From former District XIV to the new District 14
The district conference in Lausanne in 1993 was the last of the former District XIV conferences. During this conference, Zonta International President, Sonja Renfer, disbanded District XIV with the following words:

> District XIV has always been something very special in the Zonta world. It is the largest and the most international district in the world and, at times, it has been the most outspoken district...Some of my illustrious predecessors found that District XIV was rather too outspoken on matters of Zonta international finances, organizational structure and administration...But they all highly respected your district for its great accomplishments in service projects, the high standard of membership and the high quality of club programs. Effective in July 1994, you will be splitting into five districts. I feel confident that the high standards of current District XIV will automatically become the standards of the five new districts.

District XIV Governor, Cornelia Klauser, continued to encourage the newly elected boards of the future new Districts 14, 27, 28, 29 and 30 to promote Zonta International in post-Cold War Europe and to connect with Zontians in Central and Eastern Europe: “La bonne terre de ce vieux District XIV a été bien préparée et bêchée: avec les nouveaux districts chaque cultivateur (gouverneur) aura plus de temps et d’énergie à vouer à sa parcelle”

While the split into five new districts seemed to be the most appropriate approach to deal with new diversity and complexity in Post-Cold War Europe, the audience at the Lausanne Conference decided upon the proposal of the District XIV Board to have joint district conferences instead of separate district conferences and to work together on specified topics during special seminars. Two new activity formats were born: The inter-district conference open to the audiences of the five new districts and the inter-district seminar open to individuals of the European Zonta community.

During the 1993 Lausanne conference, the newly elected boards of the future Districts 14, 27, 28, 29 and 30 were asked to discuss and decide upon the allocation of areas in consideration of the best connections to new Zonta clubs in Central and Eastern Europe within their districts. The new District 14 board discussed the issue but, at the time, were unable to agree on the allocation of the Austrian Areas. The allocation of Areas was only one of the major concerns of the so-called Eastern clubs. Sonja Renfer shared the following personal reflections during her address to the Lausanne conference:

When talking to our new Zontians in the new democracies in Central and Eastern Europe, I have come to realize what an impact these new Zontians are beginning to have upon our organization. Their priorities are somewhat different from ours, because they are looking upon Zonta as a means to help them to build up trust amongst themselves and to gradually learn to trust us: Zontians from the Western world. Trust to them is a totally new experience….Coupled with trust, there is friendship which we, in Western Zonta circles, keep telling everybody we truly have. Do we really have that true trust and friendship as well as the tolerance which is part of true trust and friendship?

Besides this comprehensive understanding of receiving new Zontians from Central and Eastern Europe, including rethinking basic virtues such as face-to-face friendship and trust, the new Eastern clubs were welcomed through generous financial support. Many of the Western SOM-Clubs of the Eastern clubs paid the annual renewal fees to Chicago for their Eastern protégés and/or sponsored their travel costs to Zonta International meetings and conferences. Until the early years of the new millennium, District 14 boards maintained the former District XIV policy of exempting Eastern clubs from district dues for a limited initial period and subsequently offering them reduced district fees. The new clubs in Central and Eastern Europe indeed appreciated the many kinds of financial support and relief they received.

2 “The rich soil of the former District XIV has been well prepared and tilled: with the new districts, each farmer (governor) will have more time and energy to devote to her plot of land”
During the first inter-district conference of San Remo in 1995, the first governor of the new District 14, Gerda Senkyr, confessed to the audience of the District 14 section meeting that she had entered into the office with mixed feelings:

when the former rich and mighty District XIV was divided into five districts in Lausanne two years ago, our district kept the famous number 14 due to the fact that the oldest European club (Zonta Club of Vienna I) belongs to our district. But our district was generally regarded as the smallest one, as far as the number of members is concerned, and thus as the district with the least financial means among those five ‘children’. Being their neighbors, we also have to take care of most of the clubs of former Eastern Europe. Our district comprises ten countries…and eight languages. It was very appealing for me starting from such a difficult situation of such a variety of cultures and languages to try to make these countries grow together to a community in the sense of Zonta by mutual understanding, friendship and tolerance.

In complaining about a disadvantaged starting position in terms of diversity, she was right, since the objective of splitting the former District XIV was to reduce complexity and diversity. When complaining about an inferior starting position in terms of members and economic potential, she might have felt some stress of competition created by the activity format of the Inter-district Conference where the members of five districts came together to report and meet each other. With a return to the traditional activity-based format for the District Conference in 2001, the feeling of being the deprived child with four privileged siblings had disappeared.

Philosophy and performance: District 14 on the move
President-Elect Margit Webjörn attended the District 14 District Conference at Chania in 2001. In her address to the audience, on “an occasion of the new millennium”, she announced the slogan for her biennium: “Combine Service and Advocacy.” Advocacy at that time was a new word in the vocabulary of Zonta International. Asking the Zonta community to intervene in favor of women’s issues at local, national and international level in politics, legislation and administration was another challenge. This new task, added to the traditional focus on helping women in need through service projects and encouraging young women through Zonta awards, would greatly modify the self-concept of Zonta International. The philosophy slowly shifted from making the world a better place for women and girls globally through various services and activities in the spirit of friendship and trust, to a making a difference as the leading non-governmental women’s rights organization worldwide.

The new emerging ambition emphasized the necessity to strengthen the organization and potential of Zonta International. Collaboration with Care and the United Nations in international service projects already had to be underpinned by sufficient members and funds. Thus, membership growth has always been a basic concern of Zonta International, and membership development was a major topic of each Inter-district and District Conference from San Remo in 1995 to Bad Gleichenberg in 2013. Area Directors and OMC-Chairmen reported in-depth, Governors and Zonta International Foundation Ambassadors encouraged the clubs to expand or at least to retain their members and stop shrinkage, and to donate to the international projects via the Zonta International Foundation.

Since 2008, there have been two ZIF Ambassadors in District 14, one of them in charge of Area 03 and the other in charge of the remaining Areas 01, 02, 04 and 05. The ambassadors motivate the clubs to think and act globally when working on advancing the status of women. Another lesson to be learned by many clubs in District 14, was to focus activities and services on women’s issues.

Since the beginning of the new millennium, the governors and area directors of District 14 have implemented various policies and actions to recruit new and younger members. There have been many seminars, workshops and lectures concerning issues such as trafficking in persons, violence against women, female circumcision or female health risks. Some Zontians became member of women’s committees or deputies at the European Council or the United Nations in order to advocate for women’s interests and augment the audibility of Zonta International. Professionalized communication of Zonta awards and service projects at various levels contributed to increased visibility of the organization. The focus on women’s needs and issues, advocacy activities and enhanced communication did reach younger professional women in Areas 01, 02 and 03 and helped to increase membership and the number of clubs, whereas in the Areas 04 and 05 the overwhelming economic problems brought a decrease in membership and the number of clubs.

Club activities at the local level were also affected by the new approaches of Zonta International to reshaping the service organization into a respected non-governmental organization with a strong focus on its mission and clever combination of service and advocacy. More and more clubs in District 14 donated to the Zonta International Foundation and invested in local and international awards, initially the Young Women in Public Affairs Award in order to encourage and empower young women. They also collaborated in campaigns such as the Zonta Says NO to Violence Against Women campaign and created inventive women’s projects, tilling the fields of education, health scouting, prevention and cure. There were still donations for reasons not related to women’s issues, for example natural disasters, but when area directors reported on such donations during District Conferences, they did so almost as a confession!

Summary
The history of District 14 is a one of change and transformation of Zonta International in terms of philosophy and performance. Early in the history of District 14, Zonta leaders often talked about friendship and trust. Compare this with the keywords of Governor Gertraud Ribitsch in her address to the audience of the 2013 District Conference in Bad Gleichenberg: visibility and credibility, underpinned by networking, membership, motivation, and communication. These few words perfectly describe the development of Zonta International from a traditional service organization to an ambitious and professionalized non-governmental organization down to the present day.
